

Sheryl B. Marymount

In her debut album, Complicated Needs, jazz artist Sheryl B. Marymount sings about the complicated art of love - from the swinging heights of "Lover," down to the dark, bluesy lows of "Junkie." Her sultry vocals and sassy style combined with plenty of solos evokes the mood of sitting in a jazz café, listening to a live set.

The album released digitally across all major platforms on April 7, 2015. Recorded at Fantasy Studios in Berkeley, and mastered by famed George Horn, Complicated Needs features the band of Grammy-award winning musicians known as "The Stellar Six"; Eddie Mendenhall on keys, Dan Robbins on bass, Jason Lewis on drums, Kris Strom on sax, Jeff Lewis on trumpet and Dave Gregoric on trombone. Also featured on the album: Douglas Amster on piano, Edgardo Cambon on guiro and congas, and Scott Sorkin on guitar. Jesse Nichols performed the superb Sound Engineering. Sheryl and "The Stellar Six" are jazz aficionados based in the San Francisco Bay Area.

What Others Are Saying

"Complicated Needs is an easily enjoyable set that serves an excellent introduction to Sheryl B. Marymount."

- Scott Yanow (Author of The Jazz Singers and Jazz On Record 1917- 76)

"Sheryl B entertains naturally, and she loves her listeners. Sheryl engages her audience with a smiling yet commanding presence. Every song wraps an emotional package all its own. Sheryl wields a skillful and powerful voice with style, as she delivers that package."

-Rick Ferguson (Jazz Pianist)
